

A Dual Bottom Line Company

WHAT IS THE DUAL BOTTOM LINE

- Learning and developing ourselves is a co-equal objective along with superior financial returns
- People who are focused on developing themselves pursue excellence
- When excellence is pursued, financial returns are superior

DUAL BOTTOM LINE IN ACTION

Our leaders at EnPro Industries launched the initiative to rethink and reshape each of our businesses, including Technetics Group. The goal is to encourage all employees to embrace the idea of the dual bottom line—a progressive business model focusing not only on fiscal performance, but also the company's impact on employees' personal accomplishments and overall well-being. Goals include:

- Surround employees with others who respect and understand each individual's purpose in life
- Encourage all employees to achieve the full release of human possibility
- Encourage each individual to decide what they want to accomplish and not wait for others to tell them
- Make sure each employee lives a life that inspires and fulfills
- Make sure employees see work not as something that has to be done, but instead a means of what each individual wants to be
